OSHA 10-Hour and 30-Hour Training

Among UL's extensive PureSafety On Demand course offerings are our OSHA 10-Hour training program for General Industry and our OSHA 10- and OSHA 30-Hour training programs for the Construction Industry.

General Industry (OSHA 10)

UL's OSHA 10-Hour program for General Industry is a series of safety courses that targets the most common topics found in 29 CFR 1910. The program is ideal to help ensure newly hired employees receive a broad overview of the role OSHA plays in the workplace, and their own roles and responsibilities regarding safety.

Construction Industry (OSHA 10 and OSHA 30)

UL's OSHA 10-Hour and 30-Hour programs specific to the Construction Industry meet the criteria outlined by OSHA's Outreach Training initiative, and are ideal for all construction workers, including project managers and superintendents.

NOTE: Many essential safety topics are covered in our Construction Industry programs; however, construction workers perform a wide variety of duties and may require additional training as designated by OSHA standards.
